Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I have been so busy working on my manuscript lately, that I have sorely neglected my correspondence. In fact, I see that I probably even neglected to read some letters.

I have no idea why yours of February 12, with the bounced check, went astray, but it only just came to my attention as I was sifting through the pile on my desk.

The check from October 31 is baffling, but Chemical Bank does occasionally foul up my account. I am enclosing a replacement. Sorry for the inconvenience. Do I owe an additional charge?

Sincerely,

John H. Davis
